

MARKET SHARE

INFORMATION ON DEPAUL UNIVERSITY'S
MARKET PROMINENCE, POSITION AND PERFORMANCE

New Freshmen from Archdiocese of Chicago High Schools

In 2017, DePaul enrolled 142 new freshmen from the Archdiocese of Chicago (AC) high schools. These freshmen accounted for 6 percent of DePaul's entering freshman class.

Over the past five years, the number of students graduating from AC high schools has declined 11 percent, while the number of AC applications to DePaul has decreased 13 percent. The share of applications DePaul has received of graduating AC students has been relatively constant at 17 percent.

The number of AC freshmen enrolling, however, increased 5 percent during this time. DePaul enrolled a somewhat larger share of AC graduates in 2017 compared with 2013 (2.8 percent and 2.3 percent, respectively).

In 2017, the largest AC high school feeders were Nazareth Academy, Marist High School, Notre Dame High School, Carmel High School and Loyola Academy, each with at least 10 freshman enrollments in 2017.

Archdiocese of Chicago (AC) High School Graduates and Freshman Applications and Enrollments to DePaul

