

MARKET SHARE

INFORMATION ON DEPAUL UNIVERSITY'S
MARKET PROMINENCE, POSITION AND PERFORMANCE

DePaul Remains the Largest Catholic University in 2018

DePaul remains the largest Catholic institution in the nation, with 22,437 enrolled students in fall 2018. St. John's University is the second largest, with 21,643 students. Together the ten largest Catholic institutions enrolled 158,816 students in 2018, up 2 percent from 2014. DePaul enrollment accounted for 14 percent of the total enrollment.

Enrollment at the ten largest Catholic universities is predominantly undergraduate. The proportion of undergraduate enrollment ranged from 78 percent of enrollment at St. John's to 58 percent at Fordham.

Georgetown is the exception. Only 39 percent of all students are undergraduates based on the most recent 2017 figures.* The percentage of undergraduates has declined from 43 percent in 2014, reflecting growth in graduate enrollment and relatively steady undergraduate enrollment.

*Georgetown University 2018 enrollment was not available at time of publication. Figures are for 2017.

Source: IRMA, Fall Survey of Enrollment at Catholic Universities, October-November 2018. Enrollment includes final figures for part and full-time, traditional and non-traditional/adult degree-seeking students enrolled in autumn sessions, as self-reported by each institution. For more information, contact Nicole Platt at Nicole.platt@depaul.edu.