In 2005, DePaul had the largest percent of adults as a proportion of total undergraduate enrollment (23%) when compared to eleven large Catholic institutions, with the exception of Saint Leo. Saint Leo, with 77% adult enrollment, is an institution focused largely on adult and online programs.

At 23%, DePaul’s percentage of adult undergraduates was two times larger than that of the next school, Loyola University Chicago, at 10% of 9,240 students. With more than 3,000 adult students, DePaul had almost four times the total number of adult students than Loyola in 2005.

Notre Dame, the University of Dayton, Marquette University, and Boston College all had less than 5% adult undergraduates in 2005.

Adult Undergraduates as a Percent of All Undergraduates at Catholic Four-Year Private Institutions in 2005
(Undergraduate enrollment is 7,000 or more)

- Saint Leo University, FL: 77%
- DePaul University, IL: 23%
- Loyola University Chicago, IL: 10%
- Saint Louis University, MO: 7%
- Fordham University, NY: 7%
- Villanova University, PA: 7%
- St. John's University, NY: 5%
- Boston College, MA: 4%
- Marquette University, WI: 4%
- University of Dayton, OH: 4%
- University of Notre Dame, IN: 0%

Source: EMR School Comparison Tool, from IPEDS PAS data 2005; Adult is defined as 25 years or older.